Fingerprint-based background checks made easy, efficient and confidential

More than just digital fingerprint scanning, our service is a secure and compliant way to gather, transmit and analyze fingerprints for screening and background checks. As an FBI-approved channeler, we have processed tens of millions of requests for government agencies and employers. Our services and hardware meet all statutory requirements.

Security you can trust.

Gemalto Cogent is committed to safeguarding each applicant's personal information and ensuring its proper transmission to the relevant authorities. We comply with all state and federal laws for collecting and submitting applicant fingerprint records.

Convenient, no stress digital fingerprint scanning

Sending a potential candidate to a law enforcement agency for fingerprinting adds unnecessary stress to an already stressful situation.

By having your own background check capabilities, you can offer candidates a seamless and non-threatening way to join your organization. After scanning the prints and transmitting them, the background check results will be automatically returned to you.

Our process is quick and convenient:

- 1 Employer registers applicant.
- 2 Applicant presents a photo ID and has their fingerprints scanned.
- 3 The generated background report is automatically forwarded to the government agency for review/analysis.
- 4 Final results are sent directly back to you, the employer.

Equipment, training and on-going support

Your location will be outfitted with systems from Gemalto Cogent, including a notebook or desktop computer, a digital fingerprint scanning device (the CS500e) and the latest version of our robust Applicant LiveScan software.

At the time of installation, Gemalto Cogent provides comprehensive system training. This training is in-depth and covers everything from basic applicant enrollment requirements to fingerprint collection techniques, as well as system administration guidelines. In addition, the Gemalto Cogent Help Desk is available for technical support, remote software maintenance and replacement parts, if needed.
